Entry 1 Speaking and Listening: Lessons 4 to 13

Ten more two-hour lessons. Lessons 4 to 8 build Tasks 1 and 2, lessons 9 and 10 build Task 3, lessons 11 and 12 build Task 4, and lesson 13 is a full mock.

Lesson 4: Spelling, numbers and personal details

Learners finish able to spell their name aloud, say their address and a phone number clearly, and understand these when a partner says them. This supports Task 1, where a clear answer to a personal question is the first thing the assessor hears.

Materials: Handout E1-4A, one per learner. Alphabet cards A to Z, large, one set. Number cards 0 to 9, one set per pair. A soft ball.

Activity 1: The sounds of the letters (25 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Say the alphabet together once. Then hold up letter cards at random; learners call the name of the letter.
2. Draw seven columns on the board, each headed with one letter: A, B, F, I, O, Q, R. Say the letters in the first column, A, H, J, K, and ask what sound they share. Fill the columns with the class: B C D E G P T V; F L M N S X Z; I Y; O; Q U W; R.
3. Drill each column. Spend longest on the pairs learners confuse: A and E and I; G and J; B and P and V.
4. Minimal pair game. Hold two cards, such as G and J. Say one. Learners point. Then learners test each other in pairs.
5. Spell five short words aloud. Learners write them on the handout, section A. Use: bus, pen, give, jam, very. Check on the board.

Activity 2: How do you spell that? (20 minutes)

1. Ask a learner: “What’s your name?” Then: “How do you spell that?” Write what they say on the board, exactly as said, mistakes included. The class helps to correct.
2. Drill the question. Teach double, as in double L.
3. Ball game. Throw the ball and ask “How do you spell your name?” The learner spells, then throws to another and asks.
4. Read out five names letter by letter for section B of the handout: K-H-A-N, Y-U-S-U-F, G-R-A-C-E, J-A-V-E-D, P-H-I-L-I-P. Learners write them. Check.
5. Pairs spell their own first name and family name to each other. The partner writes them down and shows the result.

Activity 3: Numbers, phones and addresses (25 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Count round the class from 0 to 20, then in tens to 100. Write 13 and 30, 14 and 40, 15 and 50 on the board and drill the difference with the stress.
2. Write a phone number on the board. Show how people say it: one digit at a time, oh for zero, double for two the same, with a pause in the middle. Drill with three numbers.
3. Tell learners they do not have to give their real number in class. They can make one up. Each learner writes a number, real or invented.
4. Pairs dictate their numbers to each other using the number cards to lay them out, then check.

5. Teach the address pattern: Flat 4, 12 Mill Road. Drill flat, road, street. Learners say where they live in one sentence: “I live in Hackney” is enough if they prefer not to give an address.
6. Read the items for section C of the handout. Learners write them: thirteen; thirty; fifty; oh seven seven double oh, nine double oh, four six one; Flat eight.

Activity 4: At the office (25 minutes)

1. Read the dialogue in section D aloud with a strong learner. You are A.
2. Drill A’s five questions chorally.
3. Pairs practise. A asks and writes B’s answers in the form. B answers with real or invented details. Then they swap.
4. Pairs check each other’s forms for spelling and numbers.
5. Two pairs perform for the class without the handout.

Activity 5: The assessor asks (25 minutes)

1. Remind learners of the six questions from Lesson 1. Ask the class to say them from memory.
2. Add two the assessor may ask: How do you spell your name? What’s your phone number?
3. Teach the rescue sentence again and drill: Sorry, can you repeat that, please?
4. Go round the room as assessor. Ask each learner two questions quickly. Every third question, speak too fast on purpose so that they must use the rescue sentence.
5. Close: the class spells the name of the college together, letter by letter.

Lesson 5: Family and the people I live with

Learners finish able to say five sentences about family, friends or the people they live with, and to ask and answer simple questions about them. My family and friends is a common Task 2 topic.

Materials: Handout E1-5A, one per learner. A photo or drawing of a family for the board. It can be your own or invented. Blank paper.

A note on sensitivity: some learners are far from their family or have lost relatives. Every activity lets learners talk about friends, neighbours or classmates instead. Say this at the start.

Activity 1: Family words (25 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Draw a simple family tree on the board with first names only: two grandparents, two parents, three children. Point and say: “This is Maria. She is the mother. This is Tom. He is the father.”
2. Elicit and write the words as you go: mother, father, sister, brother, daughter, son, wife, husband, grandmother, grandfather. Add friend and neighbour beside the tree.
3. Drill each word. Mark the stress on DAUGHter, HUSband, GRANDmother.
4. Ask questions about the tree: “Who is Maria’s husband? Who is Tom’s daughter?” Learners answer with a name, then with a sentence.
5. Learners match the pairs in section A of the handout and check with a partner.

Activity 2: Have and has, his and her (25 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Write on the board: I have one sister. She has two children. Underline have and has. Ask which goes with I and which with she. Add he has, we have, they have.
2. Drill with the family tree: “Maria…” “has three children.” “Tom and Maria…” “have three children.”
3. Point to a man and a woman on the tree. Say: “His name is Tom. Her name is Maria.” Drill with pointing. Then point to learners in the room: the class says “His name is…” or “Her name is…”
4. Learners circle the correct word in section B of the handout. Check together, with the class saying each full sentence.
5. Quick oral check. Say the start of a sentence and a learner finishes it: “My friend…” “has a car.” “Her name…” “is Sara.”

Activity 3: People in my life (20 minutes)

1. Show section C of the handout. Read each line and its choices aloud. Model completing it for yourself on the board.
2. Make it clear that learners choose the lines that are true for them. A learner who lives alone uses that line. A learner with no family nearby writes about a friend or neighbour.
3. Learners complete the sentences. Walk round and help with spelling.
4. Pairs read their sentences to each other.

Activity 4: Ask about people (25 minutes)

1. Board four questions and drill them: Do you have brothers or sisters? Who do you live with? What is his name? What is her name? Where does he live? Where does she live?
2. Teach the short answers: Yes, I do. No, I don't.
3. Model with a strong learner. Ask the questions and draw stick figures on the board with names and places as they answer.
4. Pairs interview each other and draw their partner's people on blank paper with names.
5. Each learner shows the drawing to a new partner and tells them: "This is Ali's brother. His name is Omar. He lives in Leeds."

Activity 5: My talk (25 minutes)

1. Remind learners of the five-finger talk from Lesson 2. Model one on my family and friends.
2. Learners practise their own talk quietly, using their sentences from section C.
3. Pairs: A talks, B counts five sentences on their fingers and then asks two questions from Activity 4. Swap.
4. Change partners and repeat without the handout.
5. Three volunteers give their talk to the class. The class asks one question each time.

Materials: Handout E1-6A, one per learner. A cardboard clock with moving hands, or a clock drawn on the board. Eight action cards with one phrase each: get up, have breakfast, go to college, have lunch, go home, cook dinner, watch TV, go to bed.

Activity 1: What time is it? (25 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Show the clock at seven. Say: "It's seven o'clock." Learners repeat. Move the hands through six more full hours and drill.
2. Show half past seven. Say: "It's half past seven." Drill with five more times.
3. Ask: "What time is it?" Drill the question. Then learners come to the front, set the clock and ask the class.
4. Write six times on the board in numbers: 6.00, 8.30, 12.00, 1.30, 5.00, 10.30. Point at random; the class says the time.

3. Tell learners there are different true answers. Someone who does not eat breakfast uses that line. Someone who does not go to college every day writes what they do.
4. Learners complete the sentences. Help with spelling.
5. Pairs read their day to each other. The listener writes down two of the times they hear and checks them.

Activity 4: What time do you…? (25 minutes)

Materials: Handout E1-7A, one per learner. Ten picture or word cards: tea, coffee, rice, bread, chicken, fish, football, music, cooking, shopping. Three face signs for the board: happy, flat, sad.

Activity 1: Three faces (20 minutes, teacher-led)

5. Pairs read their sentences to each other.

Activity 3: Do you like…? (30 minutes)

1. Board the question and both answers: Do you like tea? Yes, I do. No, I don't. Drill the question with rising voice, then the answers.

6. Board two errors you heard. The class corrects them.

Activity 4: What about you? (25 minutes)

1. Demonstrate with a learner. Ask "Do you like coffee?" After the answer, wait, look expectant, and prompt them to ask you back. Teach What about you?
2. Board and drill three replies: Me too. I don't. I like tea.

4. The helper gives a thumbs up for each full sentence. Rotate roles.
5. Close: each learner says one thing they like and one thing they don't like to the class, fast, round the room.

Answer key, Lesson 7

- Section A: Food and drink: rice, tea, bread, chicken, fish. Free time: football, music, walking, cooking, shopping.

Lesson 8: Asking questions

Learners finish able to choose the right question word, put the words of a question in order, and ask two sensible questions after a partner's talk. Task 2 requires those two questions, and many Entry 1 learners can answer far better than they can ask.

Materials: Handout E1-8A, one per learner. Five large question word cards: What, Where, When, Who, How many. The word strips from section B of the handout cut up, one set per pair, each question in its own envelope.

Activity 1: Five question words (25 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Stick the five question word cards across the board. Under each, draw a simple picture: a box for What, a house for Where, a clock for When, a face for Who, the numbers 1 2 3 for How many.
2. Say an answer. Learners point to the card that asks for it: "In Hackney." "On Monday." "My sister." "Rice." "Three." "At seven o'clock." "My teacher." "A pen." "Ten." "In the kitchen."
3. Drill the five words. Then say the answer and learners call the word aloud instead of pointing.
4. Give each of five learners a card. Say an answer; the learner holding the right card stands up and says the word.

5. Learners match the question words to the answers in section A of the handout.

Activity 2: Build the question (25 minutes)

1. Board the pattern in three boxes: question word / do you / action. Fill it: Where / do you / live? Drill. Change one box at a time: When do you get up? What do you like?
2. Show the second pattern without a question word: Do you / like tea? The answer is yes or no.
3. Show the two questions that are different because they use is and are: What is your name? Where are you from? Learners already know these by heart. Leave them on the board in a separate box.
4. Give each pair an envelope with one question cut into words. They build it, say it, and pass it on. Continue until every pair has built all six.
5. Learners write the six questions in section B of the handout.

Activity 3: What is the question? (20 minutes)

1. Say an answer about yourself: “I live in Leyton.” Ask the class for the question. Do four more.
2. Learners write the questions for the four answers in section C of the handout, alone.
3. Check in pairs, then on the board. Accept When do you get up? and What time do you get up?
4. Pairs test each other: one says a true answer about themselves; the other asks the question it belongs to.

Activity 4: Two questions after a talk (25 minutes, teacher-led then pairs)

1. Remind learners: in the exam, the partner talks, then you ask two questions.
2. Give a five-sentence talk about your free time. The class listens. Then show the question starters in section D and ask learners to choose one and ask you.
3. Teach the safe route: listen for one thing the partner likes or does, then ask Where…? or When…? or Do you like…? about it.
4. Pairs: A gives the five-sentence talk from Lesson 2 or Lesson 5. B asks two questions from section D. A answers. Swap.
5. Change partners and repeat. This time B may not look at the handout.

Activity 5: Guess the card (25 minutes)

1. Use the food and free time cards from Lesson 7. One learner takes a card and hides it.
2. The class asks yes/no questions to find it: “Is it food? Do you drink it? Is it hot? Do you like it?” Board useful questions as they come up.
3. Play three rounds as a class, then in groups of four.
4. Finish with a question race. Say a question word; pairs have 20 seconds to say a full question with it. The fastest correct pair gets a point.
5. Close: the class asks you five questions, one with each question word.

Lesson 9: Describing people

Learners finish able to say five sentences about a person in a picture: who it is, what they look like, what they are wearing and how they feel. This prepares Task 3.

Materials: Handout E1-9A, one per learner. Six printed colour photos of one person each, numbered on the back, with clear clothes in strong colours: a tall man in a blue jacket; a woman in a red dress; a boy in a yellow T-shirt; an older woman in a green coat; a man in a white shirt and black trousers; a girl in a pink hat. Coloured pens or paper in eight colours.

Activity 1: Colours and clothes (25 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Hold up coloured pens or paper one at a time. Elicit and drill eight colours: red, blue, green, yellow, black, white, brown, pink.
2. Say: "Touch something blue." Learners touch something of that colour in the room or on their clothes. Do all eight, fast.
3. Point to your own clothes and name them. Elicit and board: shirt, T-shirt, jacket, coat, trousers, jeans, dress, skirt, shoes, hat, scarf. Drill. Mark trousers, jeans and shoes as words that are always plural.

1. Hold up a photo. Say: "He is wearing a blue jacket." Board the pattern in boxes: He / She / is wearing / a / colour / clothes.
2. Drill with each of the six photos. Show that a disappears with trousers, jeans and shoes: "He is wearing black trousers."
3. Put the photos on the board with numbers showing. Say a sentence. Learners call the number.

4. Pairs take turns: one says a sentence, the other points to the photo.
5. Describe a learner in the room without the name: “She is wearing a green scarf.” The class says who. Learners then do this in pairs. Rule: clothes only.

Activity 3: Is and has (20 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Use two photos. Say: “He is tall. She is short.” Show with your hand. Add young and old, with older as the kinder word for a real person.
2. Point to hair. Say: “She has long hair. He has short hair.” Board two columns: is with tall, short, young, happy, sad; has with long hair, short hair, a beard, glasses.
3. Drill by pointing at photos. Learners choose is or has and finish the sentence.
4. Add two feelings with faces: happy and sad. Add tired with a yawn.
5. Learners circle is or has in section B of the handout. Check together aloud.

Activity 4: Five sentences (25 minutes)

1. Model the five-finger description with one photo: “This is a man. He is tall. He has short hair. He is wearing a blue jacket. He is happy.”
2. Do a second photo with the class supplying each sentence as you hold up a finger.
3. Give each pair a photo. They write five sentences in section C of the handout.
4. Pairs swap photos with another pair and say five sentences about the new one without writing.
5. Hear four pairs. Praise full sentences with is, has and is wearing.

Activity 5: Mini exam, Task 3 (25 minutes)

1. Explain: the assessor gives you a picture. You tell your partner and the assessor about it.
2. Groups of three: speaker, partner, counter. The speaker takes a photo and says five sentences. The counter holds up a finger for each one.
3. The partner asks one question: “Is he happy?” or “What colour is her coat?”
4. Rotate until everyone has described two photos.
5. Close: describe one learner’s clothes in three sentences. The class guesses. Then one learner describes you.

Lesson 10: Describing places and things

Learners finish able to say five sentences about a place in a picture: what it is, what is there, where things are, and whether they like it. This prepares Task 3.

Materials: Handout E1-10A, one per learner. Four printed colour photos of simple places, numbered on the back: a kitchen; a living room; a classroom; a small shop. A pen, a bag, a book and a cup for demonstration. Plain paper.

Activity 1: What's this? (20 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Walk round the room. Touch things and ask: "What's this?" Elicit or give: table, chair, door, window, board, bag, book, pen, phone, clock, bin. Board them.
2. Drill the question and the answer: What's this? It's a table. Learners then ask each other, pointing at things.
3. Add room words from the photos: bed, sofa, fridge, cooker, cupboard, cup, plate, TV, shelf. Hold up each photo and point.
4. Quick memory game. Show a photo for ten seconds, then hide it. Pairs say as many things as they can remember.
5. Recap There is a… and There are two… from Lesson 2 with the classroom: learners write three true sentences in section A of the handout.

Activity 2: In, on, under, next to (25 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Put the pen in the bag. Say: "The pen is in the bag." Put it on the bag, under the bag, next to the bag. Say each sentence and have learners repeat.
2. Give instructions with real objects: "Put your pen on your book. Put your book under your chair. Put your phone next to your bag." Learners do it. Then a learner gives the instructions.
3. Ask: "Where is the pen?" Move it and learners answer. Drill the question.
4. Pairs hide a pen somewhere on their desk and ask each other: "Where is the pen?"
5. Learners circle the correct word in section B of the handout. Check aloud.

Activity 3: A room in a picture (25 minutes)

1. Hold up the kitchen photo. Model five sentences on your fingers: "This is a kitchen. There is a table. There are two chairs. The cup is on the table. I like this kitchen."
2. Do the living room photo with the class supplying each sentence.
3. Give each pair a photo. They write five sentences in section C of the handout using the sentence builder.
4. Pairs join another pair, show the photo and say their sentences. The listeners point to each thing as they hear it.
5. Swap photos and repeat without writing.

Activity 4: My room (25 minutes)

1. Draw a simple room on the board: a bed, a table, a window, a chair. Describe it as you draw: “This is my room. There is a bed. The table is next to the bed.”
2. Each learner draws a room they know, with four or five things in it. Two minutes only. It can be any room: a bedroom, a kitchen, a room in the hostel, the classroom.
3. Pairs sit so that they cannot see each other’s paper. A describes; B draws. Then they compare.
4. Swap roles.
5. Three learners show their drawing and describe it to the class.

Activity 5: Mini exam, Task 3 (25 minutes)

1. Groups of three: speaker, partner, counter. Mix the place photos with the people photos from Lesson 9, face down.
2. The speaker takes a photo and says five sentences. The counter holds up fingers.
3. The partner asks one question: “Where is the cup?” or “Do you like this room?”
4. Rotate until everyone has described one person and one place.
5. Close: put an object somewhere in the room. The class says where it is. Do this four times with four position words.

Lesson 11: Listening for numbers, days, times and prices

Learners finish able to hear and repeat a day, a time, a number or a price in a very short text, and to give a short yes or no answer about it. These are the details Task 4 most often asks for.

Materials: Handout E1-11A, one per learner. Seven day cards. YES and NO cards from Lesson 3, one pair per learner. The teacher's scripts below. Read slowly and clearly, twice each.

Activity 1: Days of the week (20 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Say the seven days in order with a rhythm. Learners repeat, then say them round the class, one day each.
2. Give the seven day cards to seven learners. They stand in order. Remove one learner; the class says the missing day.
3. Ask: "What day is it today? What day is it tomorrow? What day was it yesterday?" Board today, tomorrow, yesterday.
4. Drill the two that learners confuse: Tuesday and Thursday. Say one; learners hold up two fingers for Tuesday and four for Thursday.
5. Learners write the missing days in section A of the handout.

Activity 2: Prices (25 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Write £1 on the board. Say: "One pound." Write £2.50. Say: "Two pounds fifty." Write 50p. Say: "Fifty p." Drill each.
2. Write eight prices on the board. Point; the class says them. Then say one; a learner comes up and touches it.
3. Ask real questions: "How much is a bus ticket? How much is a coffee?" Accept any sensible answers.
4. Board the shop question: How much is the bread? and the answer It's one pound fifty. Drill in open pairs.

3. Tell learners the detail question before you read again: "What time is the appointment?" Ask what to listen for: a time. Read again. Learners write the answer in section C.
4. Repeat the same steps with Script B. The detail is a price.
5. Learners follow the gapped scripts in section D while you read a third time, and fill in the words.
6. Pairs read Script B aloud as a dialogue, then swap roles.

Activity 4: Exam mode (20 minutes)

1. Tell learners that in the exam they do not write. They listen and speak.
2. Pairs, A and B. Read Script C twice. Ask all the As the yes/no question; they answer to their partner. Ask all the Bs the detail question. Confirm aloud.
3. Read Script D twice. Swap: Bs answer yes or no, As give the detail.
4. Ask four individual learners to answer aloud in a full sentence: "It starts at half past nine."

Activity 5: Our own listening (25 minutes)

1. Board a frame: My _____ is on _____ at _____. Model: "My class is on Monday at ten o'clock."

2. Each learner writes one sentence with a day and a time. It can be true or invented.
3. Learners read their sentence to a partner twice. The partner writes the day and the time.
4. Six learners read to the class. Everyone writes the day and time. Check each one.
5. Close: quick fire round the room. “What day is it tomorrow?” “How much is this?” pointing to a price on the board. “What time is it?”

Materials: Handout E1-12A, one per learner. YES and NO cards. Four place signs for the walls: college, doctor, market, home. The teacher's scripts below. For the dialogues, use a strong learner or a colleague as the second voice if you can.

Activity 1: Where are they? (20 minutes, teacher-led)

1. Put the four place signs on four walls. Check the words with a quick mime for each.
2. Read one line at a time. Learners point to the wall, or walk there if space allows: "Your class is in Room 6." "What is the problem?" "How much are the apples?" "Dinner is ready." "Take this medicine." "Two kilos of rice, please." "Open your books." "Where is my phone?"

2. Read Script A twice. Ask the yes/no question. Cards up, then the short answer together.
3. Give the detail question, then read once more. Learners write the answer in section A of the handout. Check.
4. Repeat with Script B. Ask what the problem is. The question says headache and the man says cough, so the answer is no.

3. Pairs read Script B and swap. Then change the problem and the number: a headache, a cold, a sore throat; one time, two times, three times.
4. Three pairs perform one changed dialogue each. The class answers one yes/no question that you ask about it.

Activity 4: Talk about it (25 minutes, teacher-led then pairs)

1. Remind learners that after listening, the assessor asks easy questions about the topic, and the two learners talk.

2. Revise the four phrases from Lesson 3 with gestures: I like… I don't like… What about you? Me too. Add: because it is good, cheap, near, nice.
3. Model with a learner on the topic of Script A: "Do you like your college?" "Yes, I do. I like my class because it is friendly. What about you?"
4. Pairs talk about the questions in section C. Rule: every answer ends with a question to the partner.
