E3 Reading – Week 9 Wednesday – Pronouns, Word Meaning, Ordering Tasks and an ESB Paper

Wed 11 Nov 2026 · Hackney · H-80042 · ESB criteria AC1.1, AC1.2, AC1.3, AC1.4, AC2.1, AC3.1, AC4.1

Prep: both lessons in the classroom, all on paper and projector (not a PC day). Cut out the alphabetical word cards (one set for the class, four pages, five learners use a set at a time). Print the Set L paper. Have the Kahoot ready and the timer slide open before 12:30.

Print: Lesson 2 handouts, both pages – 2A, 2B, 2C (one each). Lesson 3 handouts, page 1 only – 3A and 3B (one each; do not print 3C). Alphabetical word cards (4 pages, once, cut out). ESB Entry 3 Reading Set L sample paper, Tasks 1 and 2 only (14 questions), one each, from the ESB sample paper file.

Project: morning – Reading Detectives projector lesson, slides 6–12; Hangman Paragraphs; Kahoot (20 questions). Afternoon – Wednesday projector lesson: slides 2–10 (order and alphabet), slide 11 (timer), slides 12–13 (Set L answers), slide 14 (exam routine).

Changes: Monday 9 Nov became Hackney Places (adjectives, adverbs, jigsaw reading), so this is the paper day that was held over. Morning: Exam Prep Lesson 2 as planned. Afternoon: ordering tasks (Hawa's Morning 3A, alphabetical word cards and 3B), then a real ESB paper under timed conditions – Set L Tasks 1 and 2 – in place of the Garden paper, which moves to the PC room on Mon 16 Nov with the online practice (kept at the end of this plan).

Morning – Pronouns, word meaning and details (about 9:40–11:45)

Time	Activity	Resources
9:40 (10)	Settle in while the register is done: Hangman Paragraphs on the projector with a short pronoun paragraph, e.g. "Rosa has a brother. He lives in Leeds. She visits him every month." When it is solved, ask who He, She and him are.	Hangman Paragraphs game
9:50 (15)	Activity 1: Who is "he"? What is "it"? Board examples, the three-step rule (look back; singular or plural; person or thing), the Mr Khan / daughter example, then 2A alone with arrows.	Slides 6–7 · 2A
10:05 (15)	Activity 2: Read "Two Wheels and a New Start" silently for the story, two gist questions, then track the pronouns; 2C section A in pairs, arrows first.	2B · 2C A
10:20 (20)	Activity 3: Guess the word from its neighbours. "Rusty" on the board, collect clues, name the method (read around the word). Practise on the slide, then the worked example and questions 5–8 on 2C (find the word, underline the words that help, circle the answer).	Slides 8–9 · 2C B
10:40 (20)	Activity 4: Find the detail when the words are different. Matching on the slide, then 2C section C alone in eight minutes with the paragraph number beside each answer. Pairs compare paragraph numbers before answers.	Slide 10 · 2C C
11:00 (20)	Kahoot – 20 questions: pronouns, word meaning, details and a first taste of ABC order. Go over the two most-missed questions.	Slide 11 · Kahoot file
11:20 (25)	Activity 5: Be the examiner. Each pair writes two four-option questions about "Two Wheels" (one pronoun, one detail) without copying more than two words in a row. Swap with another pair and answer. Put three on the board; the class says which wrong option was most tempting. Close with "When I do not know a word in the exam, I will …".	Slide 12 · board

Afternoon, classroom – Ordering tasks and an ESB paper (about 12:30–2:30)

Time	Activity	Resources
12:30 (10)	Warm-up: tell the class your morning out of order; learners tap the events in order on the projector. Board the time words; before and after in red.	Slides 2–3
12:40 (20)	“The first event in the sentence is not always first in time”: five sentences on the slide. Then Hawa’s Morning on the projector – for each event a learner says the event and reads out the words that prove it, then taps it. Teach the three-step ordering routine. Learners then do Handout 3A alone; pairs compare, and for each event give the time word that proves it.	Slides 4–6 · 3A
13:00 (20)	Alphabetical order: five learners hold word cards and stand in order (Set 1, then Set 2 – look at the second letter, then Set 3 – third and fourth letters); the class corrects them and confirms on the projector. Teach the paper method (write the alphabet, cross off, count). Learners write the sets in Handout 3B alone, then check in pairs.	Slides 7–10 · word cards · 3B
13:20 (10)	Exam set-up: desks apart, phones away, no talking. Board the finish time (2:10pm). Remind the order of work: read the title and first sentences, read the whole text once, then answer; every question gets an answer. Hand out Set L Tasks 1 and 2.	Slide 11 · Set L paper
13:30 (40)	Set L Tasks 1 and 2, 14 questions, 40 minutes (the real paper gives 60 minutes for 21 questions). Start the timer on slide 11. Blue or black pen. Do not help with words. Note who gets stuck where; fast finishers prove each answer by writing the line number beside it.	Slide 11 · Set L paper
14:10 (15)	Prove it: learners swap papers and mark in a different colour. For each question one learner gives the answer and another reads the words in the text that prove it. Discuss 3 and 10 (who is “they” and who is “I”) and 5 and 12 (purpose). Mark out of 14; record the class’s two weakest questions for Monday 16 Nov.	Slides 12–13
14:25 (5)	Exam day routine on the slide. Each learner tells a partner “Next time I will …”.	Slide 14

Differentiation: weaker learners start Task 1 and may leave the alphabetical question (7) to the end; in Task 2 tell them to read Text A first. Stronger learners write the line number that proves each answer and then check every answer again before time is up. If the afternoon runs late, shorten the alphabetical cards, not the timed paper.

Handout 2B: Two Wheels and a New Start

1 When Farid Rahimi arrived in London two years ago, he knew nobody. He lived in a hostel in Dalston and spent most of his money on bus fares. His English class was four miles away, so he travelled for nearly an hour each way.

2 One day his teacher, Mrs Okafor, told him about a bicycle workshop near the canal. It gives old bikes to people who need them. She wrote the address on a piece of paper and gave it to him. He went there the next Saturday.

3 The workshop was noisy and crowded. A mechanic called Rosa showed Farid a rusty blue bicycle. “It is yours,” she said, “but first you must repair it.” Farid had never fixed anything before. Rosa was patient. She taught him how to change a tyre and mend the brakes. After three Saturdays, it was ready.

4 The bicycle changed Farid’s life. He now gets to college in twenty minutes and he saves about fifteen pounds a week. He also feels healthier. At first, the busy roads frightened him, so he took a free cycling lesson from the council. Now he rides with confidence.

5 Farid still goes to the workshop every Saturday, but these days he is a volunteer. He helps new visitors choose a bike and shows them how to look after it. “Rosa gave me more than a bicycle,” he says. “She gave me a skill. I want to pass it on.”

Handout 2B: Two Wheels and a New Start

1 When Farid Rahimi arrived in London two years ago, he knew nobody. He lived in a hostel in Dalston and spent most of his money on bus fares. His English class was four miles away, so he travelled for nearly an hour each way.

2 One day his teacher, Mrs Okafor, told him about a bicycle workshop near the canal. It gives old bikes to people who need them. She wrote the address on a piece of paper and gave it to him. He went there the next Saturday.

3 The workshop was noisy and crowded. A mechanic called Rosa showed Farid a rusty blue bicycle. “It is yours,” she said, “but first you must repair it.” Farid had never fixed anything before. Rosa was patient. She taught him how to change a tyre and mend the brakes. After three Saturdays, it was ready.

4 The bicycle changed Farid’s life. He now gets to college in twenty minutes and he saves about fifteen pounds a week. He also feels healthier. At first, the busy roads frightened him, so he took a free cycling lesson from the council. Now he rides with confidence.

5 Farid still goes to the workshop every Saturday, but these days he is a volunteer. He helps new visitors choose a bike and shows them how to look after it. “Rosa gave me more than a bicycle,” he says. “She gave me a skill. I want to pass it on.”

Handout 2B: Two Wheels and a New Start

1 When Farid Rahimi arrived in London two years ago, he knew nobody. He lived in a hostel in Dalston and spent most of his money on bus fares. His English class was four miles away, so he travelled for nearly an hour each way.

2 One day his teacher, Mrs Okafor, told him about a bicycle workshop near the canal. It gives old bikes to people who need them. She wrote the address on a piece of paper and gave it to him. He went there the next Saturday.

3 The workshop was noisy and crowded. A mechanic called Rosa showed Farid a rusty blue bicycle. “It is yours,” she said, “but first you must repair it.” Farid had never fixed anything before. Rosa was patient. She taught him how to change a tyre and mend the brakes. After three Saturdays, it was ready.

4 The bicycle changed Farid’s life. He now gets to college in twenty minutes and he saves about fifteen pounds a week. He also feels healthier. At first, the busy roads frightened him, so he took a free cycling lesson from the council. Now he rides with confidence.

5 Farid still goes to the workshop every Saturday, but these days he is a volunteer. He helps new visitors choose a bike and shows them how to look after it. “Rosa gave me more than a bicycle,” he says. “She gave me a skill. I want to pass it on.”

Handout 2B: Two Wheels and a New Start

1 When Farid Rahimi arrived in London two years ago, he knew nobody. He lived in a hostel in Dalston and spent most of his money on bus fares. His English class was four miles away, so he travelled for nearly an hour each way.

2 One day his teacher, Mrs Okafor, told him about a bicycle workshop near the canal. It gives old bikes to people who need them. She wrote the address on a piece of paper and gave it to him. He went there the next Saturday.

3 The workshop was noisy and crowded. A mechanic called Rosa showed Farid a rusty blue bicycle. “It is yours,” she said, “but first you must repair it.” Farid had never fixed anything before. Rosa was patient. She taught him how to change a tyre and mend the brakes. After three Saturdays, it was ready.

4 The bicycle changed Farid’s life. He now gets to college in twenty minutes and he saves about fifteen pounds a week. He also feels healthier. At first, the busy roads frightened him, so he took a free cycling lesson from the council. Now he rides with confidence.

5 Farid still goes to the workshop every Saturday, but these days he is a volunteer. He helps new visitors choose a bike and shows them how to look after it. “Rosa gave me more than a bicycle,” he says. “She gave me a skill. I want to pass it on.”
